

FORUM FOR EXPERTS ON SOCIAL PROTECTION FESP

Public Lecture:

“Is Unemployment Insurance of Value for Namibia”

Prof. Marius Olivier is Extraordinary professor in the Faculty of Law, North- West University, Potchefstroom, South Africa, an Adjunct-professor in the Faculty of Law, University of Western Australia, based in Perth, and a Fellow of the Stellenbosch Institute for Advanced Study (STIAS). He is also the Director of the Institute for Social Law and Policy (ISLP). Marius has been advising on, specializing in and writing on labour law, social security, social protection, and migration, with a focus also on regional dimensions and comparative contexts. He has been intimately involved in the development and reform of social protection and migration schemes and systems, and has been rendering comprehensive services to international and regional organizations, to governments, social security institutions, migration and other stakeholders in the developing world, and to development agencies and donor institutions involved in social protection and migration respectively. He assisted the Government of Namibia with the development of a Migration Profile for Namibia and a National Labour Migration Policy for Namibia and has done extensive work for the Namibian Social Security Commission, as part of different teams responsible for developing proposals for the introduction of a National Pension Fund, an Unemployment Insurance Scheme, and Return-to-Work for workers suffering from occupational injuries and diseases.

He acted as project leader of a comprehensive policy- and legislative reform- oriented research project on Redesigning the South African Unemployment Insurance Fund: Reform proposals for the Unemployment Insurance Fund (UIF) of South Africa. He was a member of the Ministerial Committee appointed to develop a framework for the inclusion of domestic and seasonal workers in the UIF; developed position papers on the UIF for the Department of Labour; prepared several legal opinions on aspects of the South African unemployment insurance policy and legislation; and presented at and facilitated several workshops on the Board of the UIF.
