NIPAM ASSIST IN DELIVERING SUCCESSFUL PE CEO'S FORUM

NIPAM was one of the organizations chosen to partake in the planning process leading up to the Public Enterprises CEO's Forum that was held the past week. NIPAM in collaboration with Nampower, the Electricity Control Board of Namibia (ECB) and Namcol to name a few were involved in the planning process. NIPAM however was selected to carry out the pre-communications of the event. Pre-communications entails crafting a media drive plan that can get any given event the traction it needs to reach selected stakeholders.

In aid of this goal, NIPAM organized various activities including radio interviews, quotes on the chosen theme for this year's Public Enterprises CEO's Forum the various chief executive officers, executive directors and managers in the public sector, live panel discussion and a public lecture. The quotes focused on the viewpoints of leaders of Public Enterprises in regards to the current status quo and their thoughts on the theme for this year's forum which was - Building Resilience and Agile Public Enterprises.

NIPAM facilitated the forums first-ever live panel discussion which was live-streamed via social media. The event allowed various stakeholders to tune into the primary focus of the Public Enterprises CEO's Forum by enabling a platform for open dialogue between those that run our public institutions and all interested persons. Feedback from the live panel discussions was positive and there were calls to make such platforms commonplace.

A public lecture was organized as an additional item leading up to the AGM that was organized by NIPAM and it looked at the agility and resilient capabilities of public enterprises. This year's Public Enterprises CEO's Forum was an overall success due to the effective achievement of all planned activities and the forum stands to grow even more with help from organizations within the public sector which can be achieved by working together in order to become agile and resilient.
