COUNCILLOR DEVELOPMENT PROGRAMME (LITE)

Elections in regional and local authorities are held after every five years to select representatives in regional and local councils. The last regional and local elections were held on the 25th November 2020.

The induction sessions delivered by the Ministry of Urban and Rural Development and individual councils enhanced the insights, skills and experience that newly elected councillors brought to their councils.

While orientation sessions are a quick way of getting councillors up to the required speed in their roles, they must have access to continuing opportunities in order to undertake appropriate skills in developing in areas needed to carry out their functions effectively.

The Namibia Institute of Public Administration and Management (NIPAM) designed the Councillor Professional Development Programme (Lite) for newly elected councillors in regional and local government to respond to this need.

The Councillor Development Programme (CDP lite) will be followed by a more advanced Councillor Development Programme and a range of short courses spread over a period of time.
